

IELTS PLACEMENT TEST - MS.TRUONG NGOC HAN

Overall: 7

Reading: 8

Listening: 8.5

Speaking: 6

Pronunciation	The candidate can be understood most of the time, but her pronunciation may affect communication at times. The candidate may have some difficulty with stress, intonation, or rhythm, but it does not impact communication significantly.
Coherence and fluency	The candidate can communicate with some effort but may pause or hesitate sometimes. Some sentences may be unclear or incomplete, but the message is still conveyed. The candidate can link some of their ideas, but there may be some inconsistency or confusion in their arguments.
Lexical resources	The candidate has a limited range of vocabulary, but they can express themselves on familiar topics. The candidate may repeat some words or use some inappropriate vocabulary. The candidate can convey the intended message, but there may be some inaccuracies in the usage of words.
Grammatical range and accuracy	The candidate can use a mix of simple and complex sentence structures with some accuracy. The candidate may make some errors in their grammar, but the errors do not hinder understanding. The candidate can use some basic verb tenses and modals but may struggle with more complex structures.
Overall	6

Writing task 1:

The line charts illustrate the diversity of national student participating in Australia university over a 10-year period from 2001 to 2010.

It can be clearly seen that the local Australia institutions observed significantly applicants who actually came from within the country while foreign students experienced the least.

Starting at nearly 200,000 new students in 2001, the first-year Australian learners reached its first peak before continuously dropped back to that level for next years. Despite declining back down to approximately 200,000 students in 3-year period from 2003 to 2005, the total of domestic learners was by far higher than that of foreign learners.

Meanwhile, throughout the 10-year period, substantial improvement was seen in the amount of offshore learner enrolments, about 4 times higher in comparison to 2001. From 2002 to 2009, there was an upward trend in overseas freshers who gradually willing to partipate in Australia universities. Consequently, the International attendants would rise the highest peak of slightly over 80,000 in total in 2010.

Task achievement	166 words The response effectively summarizes the information presented in the line charts, describing the changes in the number of national and international students enrolled in Australian universities from 2001 to 2010. The writer presents a clear overview of the data and includes key details, such as the steady increase in the number of offshore students over the ten-year period.
Coherence and cohesion	The essay is well-organized, with a clear and logical progression of ideas. There is the effective use of transition words and phrases, such as "meanwhile" and "in conclusion," to connect different parts of the essay and create coherence.
Lexical resources	The writer demonstrates a good range of vocabulary, using appropriate and precise words and phrases to describe the data, such as "enrolments" and "freshers." There are some minor errors in word choice and usage, such as "experienced the least" instead of "had the lowest numbers."
Grammatical range	The essay contains a variety of sentence structures and

and accuracy	grammatical forms, demonstrating good range. There are a few errors in grammar and punctuation, such as missing commas and incorrect verb forms, but they do not significantly affect understanding.
Overall	Overall, the essay demonstrates a good understanding of the data and effectively communicates the main trends and patterns over the ten-year period. The writer uses a good range of vocabulary and sentence structures, although there are some minor errors in grammar and word choice. Based on these factors, the essay would likely receive a score of 6.0 on the IELTS writing band scale.

Writing task 2:

Hosting an international events contributes not only proud moment to the home country but also financial benefits to the local community. In contrast, many people argue that this event may cause some negative effects in various aspects.

One of the most obvious reasons that make people think it is good for the country to host such events is that the nation will be beneficial from travellers who are fans and sport lovers. Furthur more, the occasion is considered as a marvellous and potential oppotunirty for revenue improvements in hospitality and tourism industry. The domestic economy is advantageous as it could motivate the Government to take its infrastructure developments more seriously, which can offer jobs and gain supports from the state citizens. For instance, the state has ability to welcome international tourists, brands and construction conglomerates. Job vacancy is easily filled with advanced experienced employees, which shifts income per capita and living standards.

In spite of undenied advantages, there are arguments believing the cons outweighs its benefits. The most remarkable disagreement comes with the seasonal polution. Massive domestic and outboundary visitors would assemble at one place at a specific period of time, which could lead to the unbalance between nature supply and humna demand in various sectors. Plastic waste, smoke and noise polution intensely increase due to sudden major of people growth, transportation habits with limited waste disposal solutions. Not only environment being poluted may the constructed sports facilities remain under-utilized for many seasons especially in periods where there are no sport competitions. Thus, the maintenance cost the country must examine may be huge and tax payers would have to bear the burden of such extravagant expenses.

Opinions vary upon distinct perspectives of what people would consider and believe. From any perspective, it would be an honor to host whichever international events as long as we strongly act properly and conserve precious values.

In conclusion, hosting global events could be beneficial in numerous ways to the development of the country even if it has its backwards.

Task response	335 words
Coherence and cohesion	The essay is well-organized, with a clear and logical progression of ideas. There is the effective use of transition words and phrases, such as "in contrast" and "in spite of," to connect different parts of the essay and create coherence.
Lexical resources	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- The writer demonstrates a good range of vocabulary, using appropriate and precise words and phrases to describe the advantages and disadvantages of hosting international events, such as "revenue improvements" and "under-utilized."</li> <li>- There are some minor errors in word choice and usage, such as "shifts income per capita" instead of "raises income per capita."</li> <li>- Incorrect use of word choice/ Spellings/ Word family (wrong use of adj)/ Plural and singular nouns/ Possessions</li> </ul>
Grammatical range and accuracy	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- The essay contains a variety of sentence structures and grammatical forms, demonstrating good range.</li> <li>- There are a few errors in grammar and punctuation, such as missing commas and incorrect verb forms, but they do not significantly affect understanding.</li> <li>- Wrong use of prepositions, articles, and punctuation.</li> </ul>
Overall	Overall, the essay presents a well-developed argument about the benefits and drawbacks of hosting international events, showing a balanced perspective and using a good range of vocabulary and sentence structures. The writer effectively uses transition words and phrases to create coherence, and while there are some minor errors in grammar and word choice, they do not detract significantly from the overall quality of the essay. Based on these factors, the essay would likely receive a score of 5.5 on the IELTS writing band scale.